McLean County Public School District is a district comprised of five schools in a rural Western Kentucky county. Our district is made up of three elementary schools: Calhoun, Livermore, and Marie Gatton-Phillips. McLean County Schools also consists of one middle and one high school. We have a student population of approximately 1500 students. Our population is currently 94% caucasian and 61% of the population has free and reduced lunch status. Our greatest challenges are directly or indirectly related to economic status of our families. The county is small with very little economic development. The school system is the largest employer in the county.

District's Purpose

McLean County Schools are dedicated to the belief that ALL students can learn and achieve at high levels. "Together We Can" build a positive sense of self through the elimination of learning barriers and the identification of individual student needs. Together We Can build positive relationships between school, community and home. Together We Can foster a life-long passion for learning that will prepare our students for the demanding global expectations of the 21st century. Together We Can! McLean County Schools brings the belief of "together we can" to life by having high expectations for all students and staff.

McLean County Public Schools consistently strive to reduce our novice rate, close the gaps that have been present in free-reduced populations and special education, and increase the percentage of students scoring proficient and distinguished on the K-Prep Test. McLean County Schools received an overall 4 Star Rating at the elementary level, 4 Star Rating at the middle school level, and a 3 star rating at the high school level. The proficiency rates at Marie Gatton-Phillips Elementary has been in the top 10% of the state for the last 4 years and was recognized as a 5 Star School in the 2018-2019 School Report Card. Our goals are to close the gaps of students with disabilities and free-reduced populations in math and reading.
